The Emdeon Clinician family of Internet-based solutions acts as a clinical connectivity hub of two-way communications between hospitals, labs, physicians and pharmacies. Its interoperable design breaks down the barriers of communication between different systems, helping you to connect to virtually any third party EMR solution. Once set up, Clinician consolidates and simplifies:

- Electronic hospital and lab ordering
- Reports and results distribution
- ePrescribing - prescriptions and refills

Your sponsored providers can manage these communications through the stand-alone Clinician web portal if no EMR connectivity is needed, or funnel them directly into most EMR solutions or information systems. Either way, Clinician can help you connect to your healthcare community in cost-effective ways you may not have thought possible.

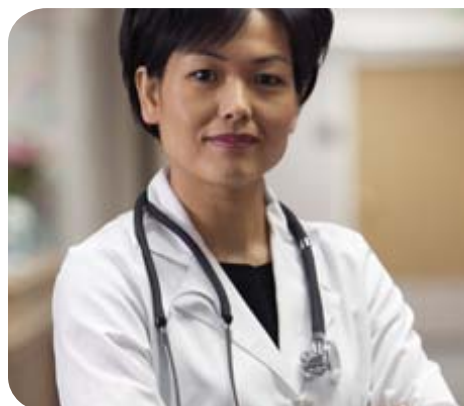

The real winners are your patients

Simplifying communications and EMR connectivity helps your healthcare business grow and thrive, but the real winners are your patients. Emdeon Clinician is designed to improve the quality of healthcare for patients. Improved communications, fewer errors and more accurate patient information simply lead to safer and better healthcare.

Let Emdeon do the heavy lifting to get you connected

Easier ways to forward reports or deliver results directly into an EMR solution is vital for strong relationships between hospitals, labs and providers. This connectivity has always been costly and required considerable resources to implement. Emdeon Clinician is ideally suited for this need, and as a sponsor, you can rely on Emdeon to do the hard work. We can cost-effectively connect both ends for you, so you don't have to worry about it. EMR connectivity has never been easier.
